

ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA. FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 10.

In speaking of iron in Virginia the Amherst Enterprise says: - "In Virginia valuable ironore lands are cheap and millions of acres are on the market. Labor is abundant and cheap. and coal, by means of railroads, is getting pearer to ore, so that in a short time, if not already, iron and steel can be manufactured here in Virginia cheaper than elsewhere in the world. All we want is capital. It is said that Pennsylvania iron costs to make it nearly $8, per ton more than Virginia, and that English iron cannot compete against Virginian, even without any tariff. She could compete with the world, if she had capital, and make money at English prices. When the great iron-masters of Pennsylvania and Michigan find that, on accout of the high price of lands and mines and labor, they can not compete with tough iron, they will transfer the bulk of their capital to Virginia, and will continue their business at a profit, simply by a change of location. It is questionable whether many are not now prepairing so to do."

The Democratic convention of Pennsylvania last night, after a stormy session, nominated Judge Cyrus P. Pershing, for Governor. The platform adopted declares in favor of equal and exact justice to all men; the removal of the present federal leaders; the reduction of public officers, and greater economy in the administration of the Government; opposing further contraction of the currency; favoring the retiring of National Bank notes, and the issuing in their stead of legal-tenders, and making legal-tenders receivable for all public dues; the extinction of National Banks and the establishment of free banks under State regulations.

Mr. Pershing, it is said, is personally in favor of hard money, but will sacrifice his views to party policy.

No fresh troubles are reported, but dispatches from Jackson represent quiet as being restored.

The excitement over the reported uprising of the Indians in Eastern Nevada is subsiding The trouble originated in a quarrel between two white men and two Indians, in which one of the former and both the latter were killed. The Indians rendevouzed at several places with the intention of avenging their brethren, but better councils prevailed, and they are now reported to be returning to their ranches to secure their crops.

In Gowanda, Chattaraugus county, N. Y. yesterday, Chas. Blockney, an attorney, was met on the street by Lewis Darby, who drew a pistol and fired at him, killing him finstantly. [REPORTED FOR THE ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE.] Columbia School, in Arlington, Mr. J. R. Barnhouse, teacher, commenced Monday, with an attendance of about thirty scholars. Mr. B. has the reputation of being an able instructor, and it is to be hoped the year of 1875-'6, will be a brighter one in the annals of Columbia School.

There is much sickness in the county at present. A week ago Mr. Philip Wrenn, one of our most worthy citizens, died, after a very short illness, of typhoid fever. Mr. Harvey Elis, who lately purchased a farm in Arlington, is sick with the same fever, and not expected to live. The Republicans of the various Districts meet Monday evening, the 13th inst., to elect delegates to the Nominating Convention that meets in Alexandria on the 15th inst. to nominate candidates to the House of Delegates. Washington Produce Exchange.

At a meeting of the Washington Produce Exchange, yesterday, Mr. Durrow moved to reconsider the vote of the Exchange at the last meeting by which the Wenger brand of flour was inserted in the Price Current, and upon its passage also moved that the same be stricken from the list.

Mr. Ream spoke in opposition to the motion. and asked Mr. Dutrow what was his object in having it expunged.

Mr. Dutrow offered as his reason that he did not think it was right to advertise any particular brand of flour in the Price Current.

Mr. Ream, the agent for the flour, said that it was not his object to advertise it, but he doubted the right of the Exchange to reconsider action on such an important question without due notice as is constitutionally provided.

The Chair decided that the consideration of the question was in order, and on the putting of the question it was voted that the Wenger be stricken from the list.

Mr. R am moved to reconsider the vote by which the Wenger was expunged from the Price Current, (which motion was not seconded,) and asked the three gentlemen who voted in the affirmative to give their reasons for so doing, and he would take their arguments as a basis upon which to reply.

Mr. Spindle then moved to reconsider the vote by which the brand had been expunged, which was agreed to.

Mr. Spindle said he would give other reasons for voting in the affirmative than merely to re-The Exchange might as well quote Welch's and other brands as the Wenger.

Mr. Ream asked how it affected Mr. Spin-

Mr. Spindle did not recognize the right of Mr. Ream, or that of any gentleman, to demand the reasons for voting in the affirmative. Mr. Wenger would not want it quoted, for it would put up the price of wheat in Rocking- the escort of the 7th regiment of New York ham county.

Mr. Ream said that in an Exchange all questions were expected to be discussed freely from a business standpoint, and that the inquiry was made for the purpose of bringing out the fullest expression, and it was not a case in which a man was called to account in a personal matter. The fallacy of the gentleman's statement in regard to affecting the price of wheat in Rockingham county lies in this-that there are one hundred or more millers in the county, who say to the farmers, "We will pay you so much for wheat," and then does Mr. Wenger come in and say. I will give 5aloc more for the choice," leaving the general market price to be fixed by a majority of the millers, and not by Mr. Wenger. Therefore Mr. Spindle's objection on those grounds was not valid, and his patrouizing argument was not appreciated. On the contrary, it was not only an advantage and a justice to Wenger to have the quotation stated, but it was also a benefit to those parties who have claimed that they have equaly as good a brand. The difference in the price to the Board of Aldermen entirely to the fact of wheat in Rockingham county was wholly attributable to the quality of the grain, for which no member of the Exchange could be held responsible. Was this Exchange organized to bow to the fancies of the people in the country, or to make the fair and legitimate quotations to this market?

Mr. Saum said he had a flour equal to any in the District of Columbia, and, if questioned as | many years a preacher in the Old School Bapto its being as good as the Wenger, he would tist Church, and if those to whom he broke answer that it was not only equal, but superior, the bread of life in his plain, simple minded, and sold lower. He had no argument to offer unpretending way, will but profit by the examagainst present rates, but they were allowing ple he has left them of holy living, well will it showed very little change; sales at 3½a6c per lb others. If any gentleman wanted to advertise sally respected, as well by the whites, as those 7c per lb. There was a good supply of Sheep his flour, let him carry the business to the paid of his own race and he died in the enjoyment olumns of the newspapers, where it belongs.

Mr. Ream explained that Wenger could Lot come under standard family brands, as it was an $8 50 flour without range, while standard families were $7.50a7.75. It demanded a separate place in the report, unless "standards" were raised to $8 50. He inquired if it was the intention of the Exchange to attempt to damage him by expunging it from the report.

Mr. Saum said not in the least; that was not his idea of the correct way of doing business. It was only his desire to specify no particular manufacturer; Mr. Wenger knew that. Mr. Spindle also disclaimed any intention whatever of damaging Mr. Ream or Mr. Wenger. He had accepted too many hospitalities of the former to attempt anything of that kind. But when he made the motion to reconsider he did it with the intention that the whole question was to be disposed of summarily, as he had a private engagement.

Mr. Ream willingly excused Mr. Spindle on the plea of a personal engagement, but could not submit to being summarity sacrificed. He stood there as the agent of Mr. Wenger in defense of his interests, and at this juncture "demanded" of the Exchange for the first time to not be cured, and parties were unable even to do the market justice as constitutionally pro-

Mr. Saum said it was advertised in a newspaper and appeared in its commercial reports, for which Mr. Ream, and no one else, received the benefit, and that was sufficient.

Mr. Ream said it was the custom of commercial editors and exchanges to specify, once a week or oftener, the principal brands of flour in the market, but he had never known of an instance of payment being made for their appearance in the reports. It was never considered or treated as paid matter by exchanges or those reporting for newspapers.

onger entitled to the floor by the clause which prevented any gentleman's speaking more than once on one subject except by consent. The Chair decided that the point was well taken. The main question on expunging the Wenger from the report was then called, and by a vote of four to two it was dropped from a place on the Price Current

A motion was here made to adjourn. Mr. Ream hoped the Exchange would not adjourn for a few moments, as he had a paper

While Mr. Ream was preparing his paper, (understood to be his withdrawal from the Exchange,) the motion to adjourn was renewed, put to a vote by the chair, and declared carried, and the Exchange adjourned.

How the North Carolina Convention WAS ORGANIZED. - The North Carolina Constitutional Convention ballotted thirteen times for a president without effecting an election, the vote being within one of a tie between Dr. Ransom, democrat, and Judge Dockery, republican, while one scattering vote, cast by an independent, made a perfect dead-lock. When the fourteenth ballot was called for Dr. Ransom arose and said:

"This balloting has gone on long enough. I have not sought this position; I do not desire ; I have east my vote twice to defeat myself; i ut the people seem to desire that this convertion shall be organized. I have made every offort to effect a compromise; failing in this, I now cast my vote, let the consequences be what they will, for Eiward Rausom, of Tyrell county, as president of this convention.

The ballot was appounced - Ranson 60, Dock ery 58. Durham 1, so the dead-lock was ended by Dr. Ransom voting for himself, Dockery voting for Durham.

To the editor of the Alexandria Gazette : A paragraph in the Gazette, of yesterday, tells us that ex President James Mouroe lies buried in a grave yard at Leesburg! Col. James Monroe died in the city of New York at the residence of his son in-law, Gouverneur Morris- was buried in that city. A few years subsequent to his death, his body was disinterred, and brought to the city of Richmond, under city, and re-buried with great pomp and ceremony-Gov. Wise delivering the panegyric-in Hollywood Cemetery, the State erecting a maguificent mausoleum over his remains. His body now lies in the southwest portion of that "lovely city of the dead.'

And now, from "the sublime to to the ridiculous:" A few days ago a paragraph copied from a New York paper, appeared in the Gazette, in which it was stated that "John A. Seaton enjoyed the confidence of his tellow citizens of Alexandria to such an extent, that when he was elected to the Board of Aldermen, he was appointed by the votes of his fellows as chairman of the Finance Committee," &c. ! Well, to our esteemed Herculean African friend this will indeed be news. John was an humble, good citizen in his sphere, and was perhaps, in common with many of his race who "were natives and to the manner born," and who conducted themselves with propriety during "times that tried men's souls," thought well of by his Caucasian friends -- but he owed his election that in his ward Echiopia was largely the pre ponderating element and class. So much for the truth of history !

ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF SUMAC. - Owing to the protracted rains of July and August, much of the parly gathering of Sumac could gather on account of the rains and the want of sun to dry. The scarcity has already caused an advance in the Richmond market, from one dollar to one dollar and twenty five cents per hundred pounds. -Fredericksburg Herald.

GEN. JOSEPH E. JOHNSTON. - The Atlanta Ga.) Herald states, on what it regards as reliable authority, that Gen. Joseph E. MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

In business circles, outside of the grain trade, there is nothing special of interest to note, and the stagnation which has existed for so long still holds sway. Money matters are about as last quoted, and while there is no pressing demand the market is by means "easy." In New York the market shows no change, call loans being 2a 22 per cent, and the most common quotations for good mercantile paper being 5.6 per ct In State securities there is but little doing. Sales yesterday of $1000 Virginia consols at 645; $1000 do. at 643, and $16,000 do. at 641 Railroad securities are dull, and we hear of no sales of locals, and quote:

months and 23 days.

This bright and interesting little boy possess. ed more than ordinary qualities for one so young. Deprived, when only a few weeks old, of the tender care of a young and lovely mother he was the object of the deepest solicitude and care. Return, my son, unio thy rest; From God no longer roam; His hand bath bountially blest;

His goodness calls thee home. Unveil thy b som, faithful tomb; Take this tittle treasure to thy trust; And give these sacred relies room To slumber in the silent dust. Nor pain, nor grief, nor anxious fear Invade thy bounds; no mortal woes Can reach the peaceful sleeper here, While angels watch the soft repose. At Earlington, Ky, on the 4th of September in the 21st year of his age, WM.
